The Froebelian School  Welcome to Remove  $9^{\text {th }}$ February 2024

After the holiday, our whole school ethos theme will be:
We stay motivated when doing something challenging.

Dear parents and carers,

Wow, what a week we have had in Remove, and finished off by an amazing assembly yesterday led by the children. They are the most wonderful group of children to work with; they set the stage, organised the props, learnt the words and were just so enthusiastic. Thank you for all your help and support with learning words as well. We hope you enjoyed the assembly.

Homework - an optional activity grid can be found on Seesaw. As a school we have decided that we will not send compulsory holiday homework. The children work so hard during the half term, they need a rest and an opportunity to recharge over the holidays.

On going Learning

- Reading
- Spellings
- Test corrections, please complete these using the purple polishing pens.

Drama Competition

The children are asked to learn one of the poems on the sheet. We will then listen to the children the week after half term. Six children will be chosen, and then Mrs Taylor-Parker will shortlist three who will perform during the festival.

In English we have been busy with phonics, and learning to spell some harder words with various spelling patterns. As part of the Chinese celebrations the children have been writing about a dragon using exciting words to describe it.

In Maths the focus has been on money, counting coins and notes, and looking at the values. The children have been learning to add up pounds and pence which was more challenging. Any practical opportunities to use money over the holidays will help and support your child to understand the value of money.

We hope you all have a lovely half term break and Gong Hay Fat Choy to our families celebrating Chinese New Year.

Kind Regards

Kimberley Sibson & Kelsey Beaumont
